

ABSTRACT

A brushless motor stator comprising a lamination body in which conductive layers 1B and insulating layers 1A are formed alternately. A plurality of sets of coils 5 12 of wound conductive patterns are formed on each conductive layer and the coils of the conductive layers adjoined via the insulating layers are connected to each other via through holes formed on the insulating layers.